As you will probably have heard by now, due to personal reasons, Jenny & Cherry are retiring from running the Farmers Market after 13 years, at the end of March.

Therefore, new volunteers are required to take over the 'helm' and take their places. In the interim, volunteers from the Village Hall Management Committee will be assisting on a rota basis. If you are interested, or know someone who may be, please phone Cherry 255114 or Jenny 245399 to discuss what is involved. We are quite happy to meet and show the 'ropes'. It may be a good thing to bring in new blood for new ideas too!

If you know the details of your event in advance, please let Parish Clerk know so organisations avoid booking same date

From the Vicarage

Beards are fashionable; two priests serving culturally mixed parishes in East London have grown beards; the Bishop of London has commended them for reaching out to the culture of the majority of their parishioners, pointing out that in some cultures a beard is seen as a mark of holiness. But not every newspaper that ran the story last month explained that his original article in the Church Times was a learned discussion of the Church's changing attitudes to beards through the ages. 'Reach out to Muslims by growing a beard, bishop tells the clergy' one headline ran - even though that wasn't exactly what he said. Like the Bishop, I also have a beard. I probably grew mine at about the time that he grew his. Unlike him I wasn't staying in a monastery in Egypt. Aged twenty, training to be a teacher and facing a stint in an inner city school that autumn, I realised that some of my pupils would be the same age as my sister, and I was desperate not to look like their older brother. At the bus depot where I was working as a conductor for the summer, the drivers had nicknamed another young conductor 'Bearded Wonder' - but I took the risk nonetheless. To their amusement, stubble appeared on my chin until one finally told me: *"You want to shave that * lot off!"* But I didn't. Like the Bishop, I kept it – and my beard and I have stuck together through thick and thin ever since. Now we are growing old together. Has having a beard made me wiser, holier, or done anything for community relations? To be honest, I've never thought about it until now. I must ask my Bishop what he thinks... Brian

Capel Church Hall Fund-Programme for 2016

Our 2016 Programme of Entertainment kicks off on Friday March 4th at 7.30pm in St Radigunds Church, Albany Road, Capel when David McCarthy who is the UK Director of The International Al Jolson Society will give us an introduction to The Jolson Story and will then show the record breaking film that relaunched Al Jolson's career when it was first shown in 1946. Most members of the IAJS tell the same story about their interest in Jolson and why they became lifelong lovers of the voice of 'The World's Greatest Entertainer' which was his title and was certainly true. He was the greatest entertainer of his day and the first to do so many things i.e. to appear in the first Talking Picture 'The Jazz Singer' in 1929. He was also the first of the greats to entertain the troops in War Zones particularly WW2 and Korea. Most members of the IAJS, like me, tell the same story, that they saw The Jolson Story when they were in their teens and loved it so much they became lifelong supporters of that voice. My father took me on a Thursday evening to The Odeon in Folkestone and I went back on Saturday when the cinema opened and watched it through three times. If you have not seen the film come along and find out what you have missed all these years, or if you are like me, come along and see it for the 40th or 50th time. It will only cost you £5 and you get a cup of tea or coffee and a biscuit. You will be very welcome.

March 4th - David Mc Carthy UK Director of the International Al Jolson Society presents the film The Jolson Story

April 8th - Keith Radford presents 'Music. Why we listen'. May 13th- Ann Finney presents Noel Coward and Judy Garland.

June 10th- Adrian Christian Mires - Classical Guitar makes a welcome return.

July 8th- Frank Conley presents Gilbert & Sullivan 'Love & Marriage'.

September 9th- Fiddle & Faff present, an evening of Folk music. October 14th - Paul Sherman. November 11th, the Colrose 7

Sketches of two possible designs to improve disabled access have submitted by the architects. The Trustee's discussed both and the architects will now develop plans in more detail. Residents offered great rates for home energy thanks to the power of collective switching.

Householders who signed up for the latest round of the Energy Deal have once again been given access to great tariffs (market leading) and can save an average of £271.32 on their energy bills. Residents will soon get their personal offer letter or email letting them know how much they'll be saving against their current deal – how much money will be going back into their pocket.

Energy Deal was combined with a number of other similar initiatives driven by over 60 local authorities around the UK to create a collective of over 18,000 households. Energy Deal is an inclusive scheme which is accessible to all households irrespective of whether they have internet access, are on credit or prepayment meters. The next round launches on 22 March 2016, and the auction will take place on Tuesday 17 May 2016. Why not join and see if you can save: Internet users can register their interest in the next round now at www.energydealswitch.com. From 22 March residents without access to the internet can call 01304 872428 and leave their contact details.

Our new trollies are now up and rolling and after a few teething troubles were sorted out most members are aware how to use them. The club competitions are now nearing completion ready for the finals day on Sunday 6th March. Please make a note in your diaries to come along and support the finalists. Our East Kent league team are likely to come second again this year in the first division to our old rivals Arca from Canterbury. This is still a great achievement with the level of play this year from all clubs. We still have two more games to play. We also had a team in the Shepway summer league that did well for their first year.

Player's numbers are dropping even though we have over 40 members in the club. On a Tuesday evening we are lucky to get six players turn up! Sundays are slightly better with 6 – 10 players, Wednesday's 12 – 16 players.

If we keep cancelling these dates we will lose them and the club cannot survive on Wednesdays alone.

Where are all you players

let's get this club up and buzzing again !!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

The lighter nights are coming but if on inclement nights you need a lift please call a committee member who will try to help. A notice is on the board for new committee members, get your name down if you want a say in how your club is run.

What a caring community we live in!

This winter, has seen some strong winds and some villagers, particularly some of our elderly, have spent time picking up rubbish from their front gardens after the refuse bins have been blown over. It would be appreciated in our "caring community" if you could give some thought to the weather forecast, especially if putting your bin out on the previous night. If possible, put bins out of the wind or lay it down (opening facing the ground so the contents stay inside). If your bin does blow over and the contents scatter, it would be helpful, especially for our neighbours, to help collect it up and check your refuse has not ended up in someone else's garden.

Thank you.

Hello everyone well another month has gone by and January and February has proved to be a very tough months for some of us trying to cope with the wind and rain. I hope that not too many of you had storm damage. Let us hope it is the last for the time being and that we do not get the snow that they are threatening us with. The daffodils that were planted last October have come through and have given a wonderful display of colour. The President welcomed all members to our February Meeting and we had a new member join. So welcome to Carolyn.

Everyone stood to sing Jerusalem and the meeting commenced. February's meeting was to be a very informal and entertaining evening. We did not have a speaker this month as we felt it would be good for members to catch up with each other and have a chat together which would include a 'Fish & Chips Supper'. This was followed by 'Members Time' which was organised by Eve Muggridge and her two able assistants. Eve had put together a very amusing game of "Call my Bluff". Well everyone had stiches in their sides as Eve, Lyn and Jan read out various meanings of words that were difficult to read let alone pronounce them. They were all convincing reasons with each person emphasizing their individual meaning. The competition was anything beginning with 'M' of which there was an amazing array of items. 1st equal Helen Petulla (New Member) and Jan Ardley, 3rd Gwen Beaumont.

The Speaker for March Meeting, Tuesday, 8th March, of which the speaker will be Lynne Essex, who will give us a talk on "My life in Show Business with Dusty Springfield" Competition = "Photo of yourself in the 1960's" - All new members are most welcome.

Everyone keep safe and hope that we have more sunshine than gales, wind and rain.

I have some sad news to convey. Mary Mahon who was a loyal member at Capel WI as well as being a dual member at Folkestone, passed away peacefully on Thursday 11th February 2016. She will be sadly missed by everyone.

Do not forget Bingo in St Radigunds Church Hall on: Friday 1st April 2016 at 7.00pm with a good helping of 'Scattergories' in the interval. So please try to encourage as many people as possible to come along.

Notes for your diaries:

Friday 17th June 2016 – Bingo – St Radigund's Church Hall

Friday 2nd Sept 2016 – Bingo – St. Radigund's Church Hall

Sat 24th Sept 2016 – Wit & Wisdom – Capel Village Hall

Bye for now and talk to you all again next month.

ETHICAL JOURNIES WITHOUT COMPROMISE

Thank you very much to everyone who supported my Quiz Night to raise funds for my expedition to Cambodia. It was a great success - we had 13 tables and a good evening was had by all. I raised £460.05 which is huge chunk of the total I eventually need to raise.

Best Wishes and Thanks Again.

Simon Goodden.

Virgin Media are about to embark on a multi-billion £ expansion and they want to know where they should extend their tv, broadband and phone services to. The more people who let them know where they are, the more likely they are to come to Capel. You can already get it in Folkestone and Dover, so it would be a case of joining us all onto their existing network. People need to visit www.virginmedia.com/cablemystreet and let them know, this is just to register interest, not to sign up or anything like that. Business owners in Capel can visit www.virginmediabusiness.co.uk/cablemybusiness - An excellent opportunity to give us some variety up here as the Freeview signal isn't that great in some places and after that it's only Sky or BT.

CAPEL-LE-FERNE FARMERS MARKET

Now in our 13th Year

Every Tuesday 10 a.m. to 12.30 p.m.

Village Hall, Lancaster Avenue, Capel-le-Ferne, Folkestone CT18 7LX

Visit us on Facebook <https://www.facebook.com>

Happy Easter everyone – and of course we have our usual Easter Egg Hunt, so bring the children during the holiday. Once your shopping is complete – or their egg hunt – there is plenty on the Jubilee Field to entertain them.

For personal reasons Cherry and Jenny are retiring from the market at the end of this month, though I'm sure they will still come as customers. The Village Hall Committee will manage the Tuesday market and would like to hear from someone who is able to help. The market relies on volunteers to help. If you are new to the village it is a great way of getting to know people and the commitment can be as little as once a month and it makes an enormous difference. We particularly need help between 12.15pm and 1.00pm on the fifth Tuesday of the month – there aren't many in a year, so we're not talking a huge time commitment. If you can help please contact Cherry 255114 or Sally Cook on 077304 75838 to find out what is involved.

Last month was the 'Make One Change' challenge – a challenge to you as a consumer to make one change to the way you buy food and support your local community. If you didn't join in then you could now. If you're short on time but want to eat locally and seasonally, a box scheme is a great way to get started. Usually filled mainly with seasonal fare, sourced from local farmers, a veg box (or fruit box) will help re-inspire your cooking. One advantage of the Farmers' Market is the opportunity to talk to the stall holders. One thing I've found about all of them is how passionate they are about their products, definitely an advantage over supermarkets. It's also part of the sociability of the Market.

This month we 'meet Mike' who sells the artisan bread, usually located by the fire exit (close to the tea tables so you can look before you enjoy Ruby's refreshments). He used to be an IT consultant, commuting to London, so how on earth did he get into artisan bread? One Christmas he was given a food mixer (don't ask) with a dough hook so Mike started to experiment. Soon he was taking loaves into work and colleagues and clients really enjoyed them. With the changing economic climate, Mike found himself slightly less busy at work and having more time to make bread. His sister Nicki who sold photographs and cards at the Farmers' Market suggested he tried selling at the Market too. The rest, as they say, is history and his hobby became his business. His dining room has been converted to the mixing room (which meets food hygiene standards) and there are four ovens in the kitchen. Whilst the financial rewards are lower, he has more job satisfaction; in his words there is a certain 'je ne sais quoi' about it, even after 6 years. Mike also admits that he works harder now than when he commuted to London. As well as Capel he goes to three other local markets, though Capel is the only weekly. We're lucky Cherry, Jenny and Mick decided to set ours up as a weekly event. Diners at local restaurants may be unaware, but Mike supplies several of them. Looked up 'artisan bread' on the internet and Jamie Oliver says: "Not all bread is created equal. You don't need to be a baker, a foodie or even fully awake to notice that tearing into crusty, freshly-baked loaf is a lot nicer than the supermarket sliced variety. It's a term you see a lot in the food world these days, along with 'craft', 'fresh' and the vaguest of all, 'real'. They're usually used to signify care, expertise and quality of ingredients, the way we closely monitor every single handmade loaf, like protective parents, to make sure it comes out beautifully. In short, it's very well-bred bread". This sounds just like Mike's approach to his bread. He uses pure ingredients, just flour, water, yeast and salt and for specific tastes the appropriate ingredients, such as chilies in his chili bread. No additives, no added sugar, no fat and definitely no preservatives. He even gets up at 3 in the morning to ensure the bread is as fresh as possible. Certainly the quality of the bread is evident in the taste – try some and find out for yourself. He assures me that, with no fat and no added sugar, it is not 'fattening'. In fact he is an active member of the Real Bread Campaign and his bread follows all their 'rules'. And his prices? Of course they cannot compete with the mass produced preservative-containing sliced white in the supermarket, but then they don't compete on taste. On the other hand they are competitive with quality handmade breads full of flavour and without preservatives or additives. In addition to his bread, his stall groans under his other homemade produce - sausage rolls, gala pies, brawn (so much easier if some else has made it), scotch eggs and my personal favourite – cheese and bacon 'turnover' croissant filled with bacon and cheese. I usually get to the market early enough to have one for breakfast to go with my cup of tea; I think of it as my weekly treat. Mike's other home produce is smoked goods – fish, particularly salmon, occasionally cheese. If there is something you specifically require, whether a flavour of bread or a smoked item please ask him. He describes Capel's Farmers' Market as friendly and that he now knows many of the people who come. He would like more people to say hello so maybe this article will give you something to talk about. After all he is near the tea tables and so is easy to get to.

The range of produce at the market is expanding cheese and pates (as well as Mike's) have been appearing on the tables, new features are 'almost' ready meals – all the ingredients ready for you to just cook and serve together – and Sandys has returned with her Mauritian dishes. The new 'managers' are working to ensure a range of produce for you to buy. Elsewhere Derek is selling the eggs – often double yokers and larger than the average size in the supermarket. He collects them from the farm immediately before setting his stall up in the hall, what you could call fresh.

Don't forget the Crafts Section back last month after their extended Christmas break and the postal service is provided as a community service. We also provide a photocopying service for just 10p per copy. In the lobby are two trolleys and a bookcase full of books and a table full of jigsaw puzzles for just a donation.

The Village Community Warden and/or our PCSO usually visit the market to answer any questions. At the moment the KCC Mobile Library attends just outside the car park, at 12 Noon every week and on the third Tuesday morning of each month the Chairman and the Clerk of the Parish Council are in the old Post Office room, available for anyone to talk to about any concerns in the village. So, as you can see, we are more than just a Farmers Market but a real Community based project!
